A Publication of the North Carolina
Maritime History Council

Greetings!

Tributaries is North Carolina's only peer-reviewed journal fully dedicated to maritime historical and archaeological topics. The journal seeks to support continuing historical, archaeological, and cultural research by publishing articles related to the maritime history and culture of North Carolina and the Eastern seaboard and accepts a range of articles in the field of maritime studies. All members of the maritime history community, including students and independent researchers, are welcome to submit articles for consideration. Contributors need not be members of the NCMHC or live in the state of North Carolina. Manuscripts submitted must be based on original research and analysis, and all manuscripts are subject to a peer review process at the editor's discretion.

Submissions should be no longer than 30 pages, including citations. On the cover page, please provide: article title; author's names, positions, institutional affiliations, and physical business addresses; and a contact telephone and email address for the corresponding author. Authors should keep the editor informed of any changes to this information. If the article was presented at a conference, please supply the name and date of the conference on the cover page.

All manuscripts should conform to the Chicago Manual of Style (17th edition) – endnotes citation style. Please consult the Chicago Manual for citations, capitalization, abbreviations, numbers, and other grammatical uses. Tributaries uses bias-free language. For more information, please see CMOS "Bias-Free Language," 5.251 – 5.260. If your manuscript does not conform to the style guide, it may be returned for additional editing before it can be considered. Photographs, tables, charts, and maps are welcome and encouraged. If images are included in your text, please also submit original images with the manuscript to retain image resolution. Please ensure submitted images do not have copyright restrictions.

Tributaries will not reprint or republish articles submitted to and accepted by other publications.
